

Laura Lee Langley

Laura Lee Langley is currently Deputy Minister of the Office of the Nova Scotia Premier, Deputy Minister of Treasury Board, Clerk of the Executive Council, Head of the Nova Scotia Public Service, Chief Executive Officer of Communications Nova Scotia, and Deputy Minister of the Office of Citizen-Centered Approaches.

After more than a decade as a journalist, she began her public service career in the late 1990's working in strategic communications and public affairs. She was appointed Associate Deputy Minister in 2004 and promoted to Deputy Minister in 2010. She has a Master of Public Administration from Dalhousie University and a Master of Arts in Leadership from Royal Roads University.

Laura Lee has served as a board member for various professional and community organizations and is a known advocate for diversity and inclusion. She has been recognized by the Nova Scotia Human Rights Commission as a Champion of the Workplace. In 2018 she was recognized as one of Canada's Top 100 Most Powerful Women as a strategic and engaging public sector leader. She is passionate about revitalizing the Nova Scotia public service and is actively leading 'Be the Change', and 'Do Big Things', initiatives that encourage innovation, inclusion, and pride in the public service.